Subdivisions

5. The approving officer as defined in the "Land Registry Act" shall not approve of a plan of subdivision unless, in addition to compliance with section 85 of the "Land Registry Act," there is compliance with the requirements prescribed in Regulations 6 and 7 hereof, except where provisions for the relaxation of said regulations is made herein, provided that the approving officer, in cases where he considers strict compliance with the requirements of Regulation 6 would cause undue hardship, may approve a plan of subdivision without compliance with the requirements prescribed in Regulation 6.

SCHEDULE A

1. General.—Whenever a street or common sewer is not available, any sanitary house sewer shall be connected to a private sewage-disposal system. Such system shall consist of a septic tank with a tile disposal-field or other approved means of disposal.

2. Location.—Any septic or other sewage-disposal tank shall be located outside and be separated from any wall of a dwelling-house. Any disposal-field or area shall be located as far as practicable from any dwelling, and in no case shall disposal-tiles be nearer at any point than ten feet to any dwelling. No sewage-disposal system shall be so located that it is liable to contaminate any existing domestic water-supply, nor shall it be located under any roadway or traffic-way.

3. Materials.—The walls and floors of any septic tank or other sewage-disposal tank shall be of substantial watertight construction.

4. Capacity.—No septic tank or other sewage-disposal tank shall have a capacity, below the invert of the outlet-pipe, of less than four hundred gallons, and shall be constructed according to plans and specifications to be seen in or obtained from the office of the Inspector, or shall be constructed according to other specifications submitted to and approved by the Inspector.

Adequate provision shall be made for any condition that may result in a flow of sewage greater than four hundred gallons per day in any dwelling or fifteen gallons per person per day in any school or similar establishment. When computations or assumptions are made as to the expected flow of sewage, the septic tank shall be sufficiently large to allow a detention period of twenty-four hours, and shall contain in addition a reasonable space for sludge storage.

5. Design.—The digestion or treatment and dosing chambers of any septic tank or other sewage-disposal tank shall be securely covered with concrete, metal, or wood, and shall be provided with adequate means of access.

The depth of the digestion-chamber shall not be less than forty-two inches below the level of the liquid outflow. A space of at least twelve inches shall be provided above the level of liquid outflow, for scum formation and gas escape.

The inlet and outlet pipes shall be of a size not less than that of the sewer served, and shall be so provided with baffle-plates or with inverted sanitary tee-fittings as to prevent any excess turbulence or disturbance of the scum. The outlet baffle or tee-fitting shall extend not less than six inches above and fifteen inches below the water-line. The inlet tee-fitting or baffle shall extend several inches above and ten to fifteen inches below the water-level in the tank. The level of the outlet shall be two to four inches below that of the inlet.

6. Dosing-chambers.—Any septic tank or other sewage-disposal tank of more than four hundred gallons capacity and discharging into a sub-surface tile disposal-field or sand filter shall be provided with a dosing-chamber of liquid capacity of at least one-tenth that of the treatment-tank.

7. Dosing-siphons.—Dosing-chambers shall be provided with siphons or other discharging devices, and shall be automatic unless other means are provided for their proper operation. Such siphons or other discharging devices shall be made of corrosion-resistant material.

8. Storm Water.—Surface or storm water shall not be drained into any private sanitary sewage-disposal system.

9. Capacity of Tile Disposal-field.—In assessing the capacity of any private sub-surface irrigation field for sewage, consideration shall be given to the character of the soil and the capacity of the dosing-chamber.

The length of open-joint tiling shall be not less than sixty lineal feet per dwelling in porous soils, and shall be increased in proportion to the number of bedrooms in excess of two and not more than five at the minimum rate of eighteen lineal feet per bedroom.

For schools and similar establishments whose daily requirements are of limited duration, the length of open-joint tiling shall be not less than two hundred and sixty lineal feet.

The volume of the disposal-tile and feeder-pipes shall in no case be less than one hundred and twenty per cent of the discharge volume of the dosing-chamber.

10. Tile Disposal-field in Impervious Soil.—No sub-surface sewage irrigation field shall be constructed in clay or other heavy or impervious soil unless porous filtration media and adequate drainage are provided by removing such impervious soil and replacing it with porous filtering material, such as coarse sand, gravel, cinders, or broken stone, to a depth below the bottom of the disposal-tile of not less than eighteen inches and preferably not less than twenty-four inches.

11. Size of Open-joint Tile and Method of Laying.—Ordinary field drainage-tile of a size not less than four inches shall be used. They shall be laid on a firm base of broken stone, gravel, or on tile supports, and shall have a depth of cover not less than twelve inches nor greater than twenty-four inches. Open joints of one-eighth to three-eighths of an inch shall be left between tiles, and the upper half of such joints shall be covered by tarred paper, broken tile, or other approved protection. The tile-trench shall be back-filled with coarse sand, gravel, cinders, or broken stone of particle size not greater than one-half inch in any dimension, to a depth of six inches over the top and around the sides of the tile wherever the soil is less porous than coarse sand or gravel. Tiling shall not be laid under any roadway or traffic-way.

12. Grade of Tiling.—The open-joint tiling shall be laid at a small uniform down grade not exceeding two inches per hundred feet.

13. Lateral Branches of Tiling.—Lateral branches of open-joint tiling shall be not less than three feet apart, and shall be connected to the liquid-effluent pipe or to a header by sewer-pipe branch fittings. Header-pipes shall be of a quality equal to that required for house sewer-pipes.
